

I was appalled at the half time show this year during the superbowl. Once again we see taste going out the window for big money. I really doubt you will do anything, but maybe if enough people complain, one day you will.